

LOCAL BOY COLLECTS OVER 6,000 PLASTIC 'SPEARS OF DOOM'

16 Year Old Collects over 6,000 plastic forks.

"I like to build hundreds of forks towers in my room" said John when asked. John was an average, lazy, couch-potato 16 year old until he went to a garage sale in North Andover. At that garage sale of August 9th 2008 John had bought 1,000 plastic forks for $10.00. From that day on John Smith has been taking plastic forks from restaurants, his high school, and even his neighborhood parties. When asked, John replied "I don't think it's stealing because people were going to throw them away anyway." John also replied when asked what he plans to do with the plastic forks, "I plan to cover my entire house with plastic forks and create a fork-paintball gun." With many years to come John himself doesn't know how long he will continue to collect plastic forks.
